Remember
When:
Hand-Cranked
Ice Cream

Modern machines do all the work for you, but once upon a time, homemade ice cream meant turning a crank by hand for as long as an hour until the cool treat was ready to eat. Based on an 1843 invention by Nancy Johnson, early ice cream makers consisted of a wooden bucket with an inner metal canister. Inside the canister was a paddle, attached to an outer crank handle; the ice cream mixture went into the canister, and remaining space in the wooden bucket was filled with layers of ice and salt. Then it was time to crank! Since the ice slowly melted during the churning process, this was usually done on the front porch, as kids and adults alike took turns cranking. For many, the eager anticipation of the finished dessert made the ice cream even sweeter.

“When the sun is shining
I can do anything; no
mountain is too high, no
trouble too difficult.”
—Wilma Rudolph
